FOI Disclosures June 2023

Index

This month we have responded to questions relating to the following topics:

- Non fatal RTIs following police contact
- HMRC referrals
- IOPC referrals to CPS and CPS charging decisions
- IOPC investigation Royalty and Specialist Protection Command collision
- PCA Report regarding Leon Patterson
- IOPC staff recruitment and conflicts of interest
- IOPC workforce

If you require a full copy of any of the embedded attachments, please contact Requestinfo@policeconduct.gov.uk quoting the reference number from the relevant response.

Ref 5024218	Non fatal RTIs following police contact
Back to top Request	I would like records of NON-FATAL road traffic incidents (RTIs) following police contact – by force, year and outcome.
Response	We hold data about non-fatal road traffic incidents during or following police contact only in respect of the matters that are brought to our attention as required by the Police Reform Act 2002. The majority of police-related road traffic incidents are investigated by the police, rather than the IOPC, and many such incidents may not fall for consideration under the police complaints and misconduct system because they do not involve a complaint, death or serious injury matter, or recordable conduct matter.
	As you may know, we receive information about the more serious police road traffic incidents by way of referrals from the police. As the majority of these referrals are either determined as suitable for investigation by the force without IOPC involvement, or returned to the force to handle the matter in whatever reasonable and proportionate manner it determines, we do not hold information about what happens to these cases subsequently.
	The IOPC has not carried out any research of its own into non-fatal police road traffic incidents and there is no straightforward way of identifying incidents of this type from our cases. The work we carry out annually to extract and verify data before it can be published on our website (e.g. under our investigation outcomes or deaths reports) confirms we cannot identify IOPC cases that fall within a certain category without extensive manual searches, other than where we have already carried out relevant research or completed a data verification exercise that captures a specific case type.

	If, therefore, you required this information from IOPC cases, which would account for very few of the non-fatal police road traffic incidents that occur each year, the work involved in producing it would be highly likely to exceed the FOIA cost limit for the IOPC of £450 or 18 hours work. As we cannot find cases in this category by automated means, we would have to manually search a large number of cases to find a significant number that involved an incident that may be relevant to your request. Therefore, we could avoid the cost limit only by searching a smaller sample of cases that would be very unlikely to yield sufficient data to support your research.
	It may help you to know that in 2007, while operating as the Independent Police Complaints Commission, we published a study that examined cases of serious injury and death resulting from road traffic incidents
Ref 5024185	HMRC referrals
Back to top	I would like to know the full names of the 10 people/cases referred
Request	to the IOPC by HMRC where a person has taken their life and used a disguised remuneration scheme. These are referred to on page 3 of this document, correspondence between HMRC CEO Jim Harra and the Treasury Select Committee made public in January: https://committees.parliament.uk/publications/33540/docu ments/182481/default/ The deaths of 10 people have been referred to the IOPC since March 2019 (as of January 2023) As these 10 individuals are deceased I do not see any privacy reason for not releasing their names in a freedom of information request (as they no longer have data protection rights if they are dead). I would also like to know how many referrals have been made to the IOPC by HMRC regarding people who have taken their own life and used a disguised remuneration scheme since March 2019 (is it now more than 10)? And what was the result of each of these referrals? If the IOPC has any information on where any inquests were opened into these deaths I would like this information as well.
Response	We have decided that we are not obliged to disclose this information because it engages section 44(1)(a) of the FOIA, which applies when disclosure is prohibited under an enactment. In this case the relevant legislation prohibiting disclosure is the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs Act 2005 (CRCA) and associated Regulations.

	Section 29(3) of the CRCA sets out the position between HMRC and the IOPC where HMRC has provided information in connection with our complaints and misconduct functions, which include our duties in relation to the referral of a death or serious injury matter. It aims to preserve the confidentiality of information relating to HMRC functions and prescribes that the IOPC shall not disclose information provided to it by HMRC where it is prohibited by Regulations. The relevant Regulations are the Revenue and Customs (Complaints and Misconduct) Regulations 2010. The Regulations do not permit disclosure under FOIA and it is not otherwise prescribed by law. Therefore, the effect of section 29(3) of the CRCA is to make the requested information exempt from disclosure under section 44(1)(a) of the FOIA. Aside from our formal reply to your FOI request as set out above, we are in a position to confirm that between March 2019 and March 2023, we have received ten referrals relating to the deaths of individuals who had been subject to HMRC action in relation to disguised remuneration schemes. None were referred following a public complaint. After careful assessment, in three cases we decided HMRC should investigate to determine if its contact with an individual as a vulnerable customer was appropriate. We returned the seven other referrals to HMRC to proceed with as they felt was necessary. As we have not investigated, any information about the cases or investigations would need to be requested of HMRC.

	IOPC referrals to CPS and CPS charging decisions         As of the 30th of April 2023         1. How many officers are currently waiting for charging decisions by the CPS, having had a file sent to them by the IOPC Please provide the total number for each force.         2. How many police officers currently has it been decided by the CPS that they will be criminally prosecuted, and criminal proceedings are yet to end? Following an IOPC Investigation?

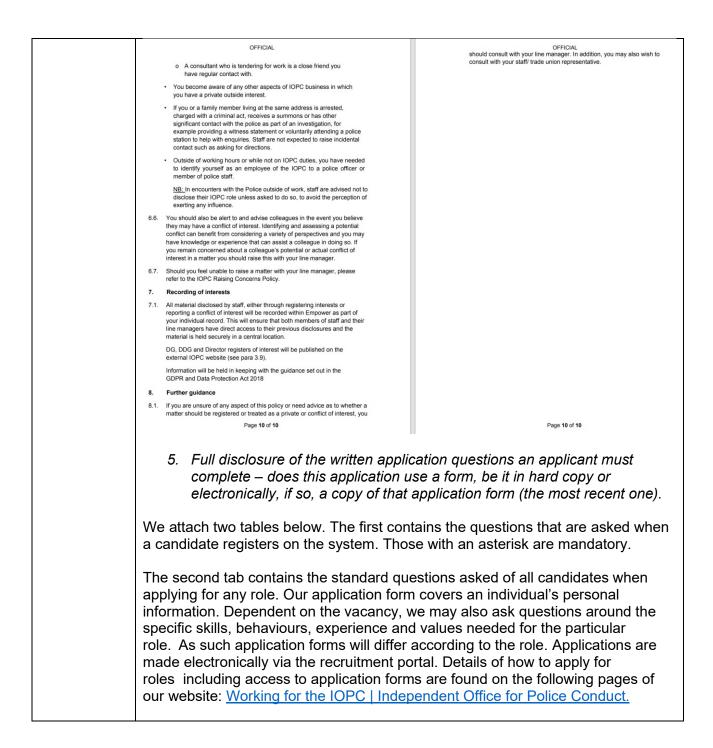

Ref 5024197 Back to top Request	upon our estimate of the number of cases we would have to search. You may wish to consider contacting the CPS to ask whether they hold data about their pending decisions and prosecutions in respect of referrals from the IOPC.           IOPC investigation – Royalty and Specialist Protection Command collision           Please provide a summary of the outcome of your investigation into the incident referred to in the press release shown below:           "We are investigating the circumstances surrounding a collision involving a marked police motorcycle attached to the Royalty and Specialist Protection Command and a pedestrian on Upper Richmond Road, Richmond, south west London at 12.50pm on Monday 17 June.           "The woman, in her 80s, suffered serious injuries and was taken to a London hospital where she remains in a serious but stable condition.
	We estimate, therefore, that the work involved in compiling the data you require would exceed the £450 / 18 hour cost limit under section 12 of the FOIA. This means that our FOIA duties do not apply to your request. The data we hold for IOPC investigation decisions and prosecution outcomes for 2022/23 and April 2023 has yet to be verified and is known to be incomplete. We are in the process of collecting and verifying the outcomes data for the year to 31 March 2023 with a view to publication later this year. We will begin assessing the data for the current year, which includes 30 April, around this time next year. We would have to carry out manual searches of fewer investigation files if the day for which you wanted this information was within a year for which our outcomes data had already been published. Whether we would then be able to source the necessary data within the cost limit would depend
	It is relevant to the time that would have to be committed to this task that not all CPS referrals are determined within a year of receipt from the IOPC, meaning we would have to identify and check the data we hold about the CPS referrals we made over a period of more than one previous year to confirm their current status. The same would apply to decisions to prosecute because the time between the commencement and completion of a prosecution can be well over a year. We would therefore have to carry out a very significant amount of work to produce the data required by your request. We estimate that it would take a minimum of 75 hours of work to identify, retrieve and extract the data you require. This takes into consideration the time it takes us to extract and verify the similar data we publish in our outcomes reports and the issues identified above in regard to the accessibility of some of the data we would have to find.

	is in its very early stages and the officer involved is assisting our enquiries as a witness.
	"Our immediate thoughts are with the injured woman and her family and those affected by the incident. The woman's family has asked that its privacy be respected at this time."
Response	The summary of this investigation has now been published on our website and can be found here: Collision between police motorcyclist and pedestrian - Metropolitan Police Service, June 2019   Independent Office for Police Conduct (IOPC)
Ref 5024251 Back to top	PCA Report regarding Leon Patterson
Request	I wanted to request a copy of the IOPC report for Leon Patterson (1992).
Response	The police complaints body at the time of this investigation was the Police Complaints Authority (PCA). We have checked our archive, which includes some information we received from the PCA, and can confirm that we do not hold this information. We can only suggest that you contact the relevant police force to find out whether they hold this report.
Ref	IOPC staff recruitment and conflicts of interest
5024206 Back to top
Request	You asked a number of questions about staff recruitment and conflicts of interest
Response	<ol> <li>What are the consequences for casework-related staff NOT revealing a conflict of interests, if any, according to your current Conflict of Interests policy?</li> </ol>
	Point 4.5 of the Conflict of Interest Policy states the following: "A conflict of interest arising is not a negative reflection on the parties involved. However failure to raise that conflict as and when it is identified prevents the IOPC taking swift action to manage against the suggestion of bias and may be damaging to confidence in the IOPC. It could also be dealt with as a misconduct matter. It is the professional responsibility of all staff to raise a conflict as soon as it has been identified."
	2. Operationally, why does a conflict of interest not preclude a person from working for the IOPC, if it is truly independent of police?
	We do not operate a blanket policy of automatically excluding somebody from working for the IOPC because they have a conflict of interest. However independence is fundamental to the IOPC's credibility and we must ensure that we deliver our public duties and make decisions free from any bias. Declared conflicts of interest are considered carefully in the context of the individual circumstances and where a risk is identified relevant action is taken to mitigate or remove it. Where the risk cannot be removed or mitigated the individual would not be allowed to work for the IOPC. The Conflict of Interest Policy provides guidance to IOPC staff on the approach we take to avoid a matter arising where,

The name of any 'corporate interest' must be declared. This means, any corporate body which has a place of business or land in any geographic area of your work, over which you have direct control and a 'beneficial interest' in a type of share with a face value, as shown on the share certificate, of more than 252,000 or 1% of the total amount invested in that corporate body by shareholders. You have a beneficial interest in a type of share if, for example, you own, you are entitled to the proceeds of that type of share. You do not need to give the value of any shareholdings or land that you register.	<sup>1</sup> based upon the well established set for bias "The question is whether the fair-minded and informed observer, having considered the facts, would conclude that there was a real possibility that the tribunal was biased." Porter v Magil: Weeks v Magil [2002] 2 AC 357.

	OFFICIAL	OFFICIAL
	Actual or potential conflicts of interest typically arise where an individual has a private interest that might influence, or be perceived to influence the delivery of their public duties.	The matter you are conflicted on including case reference or other identifier as appropriate.
	As the guardian of the police complaints system, our independence from the police service is subject to considerable external scrutiny and is vital to the	<ul> <li>The nature of your private interest. Where appropriate this should include the names of relevant parties and your relationship to them.</li> <li>Any relevant context or details that will assist in the understanding of</li> </ul> public's confidence in our ability to hold the police to account. Therefore, any previous employment and other significant connections to the police service are areas that could be perceived as a conflict and should be considered.	<ul> <li>The scope of your IOPC duties that may be impacted.</li> </ul>
	Equally links to any other stakeholders in the police complaints system should be considered.	<ul> <li>Any immediate actions or workload you need to handover pending a decision.</li> </ul>
	A conflict of interest arising is not a negative reflection on the parties involved. However failure to raise that conflict as and when it is identified prevents the IOPC taking swift action to manage against the suggestion of bias and may be damaging to confidence in the IOPC. It could also be dealt with as a misconduct mater. It is the professional responsibility of all staff to raise a conflict as soon as it has been identified.	5.6. In considering this material, your line manager must then apply the full test "that a fair-minded and informed observer, having considered the facts, would conclude that there was a real possibility that the member of staff could be biased." They will need to determine if your interest is significant enough for any further steps to be necessary and or separate you from the matter. In doing so the areas they will need to consider would include:
5.	Reporting and considering a conflict of interest	If there are specific sensitivities that have been raised in relation to
	Timely and robust management of conflicts of interest is inherently reliant upon individual members of staff considering the delivery of their IOPC duties in the context of their personal circumstances and identifying matters where there exists the potential for a conflict to arise, or be perceived to	<ul> <li>this matter i.e. a family member or complainant has previously expressed concerns in this area.</li> <li>The proximity of your interest i.e. is it held directly by yourself or by a family member.</li> </ul>
5.2.	arise. In determining whether to report a matter staff are expected to consider whether " it is arguable that a fair-minded and informed observer, having considered the facts, would conclude that there was a real possibility that the	<ul> <li>Whether the interest relates to current or previous circumstances i.e. does it relate to an acquaintance you currently hold or one you held 10 years ago.</li> </ul>
	member of staff could be biased." <sup>2</sup>	Any other IOPC policy or guidance relevant to this matter.
	By adding the criteria 'it is arguable' this lowers the threshold as to whether a matter should be reported to the line manager for consideration, and avoids the individual who holds the conflict from applying the full test (see 5.6).	<ul> <li>Whether any conflicts or perceived conflict could be mitigated by changes to the nature of your involvement on a matter.</li> </ul>
5.4.	Prior disclosure of an interest i.e. through the register of interest does not mitigate the need to report a possible conflict as and when it may occur.	5.7. Each possible conflict of interest will be considered on a case by case basis and it may be necessary for your line manager to seek further guidance or advice in making a decision.
	Where the possibility of a potential conflict has been identified you should avoid making decisions or becoming further involved in the matter and raise this to your line manager (or next available line manager) immediately, and swiftly raise a conflict of interest record within Empower, recording:	5.8. Once a decision has been reached, your line manager will discuss the outcome with you. Where it is necessary to separate you from a matter your line manager will discuss the reasons for this and the next steps.
<sup>2</sup> Initial te	ast for reporting a potential conflict of interest	5.9. It is important that, irrespective of the decision reached, any consideration of a conflict of interest is accurately and formally recorded, should we be challenged at a later date. Your line manager will ensure that any decision taken is appropriately captured in Empower and cross referenced in the

	OFFICIAL record of the business through which it arose i.e. investigations policy file,	OFFICIAL
	Perito file or procurement decision record. Identifying a conflict of interest	NB: On managed or independent investigations, all staff are required to identify any actual or perceived conflicts of interest relating to the investigation at the outset and during the life of the investigations.
	It is the responsibility of all IOPC staff to remain vigilant to the possibility of a conflict between their private interests and public duties arising and you are expected to declare any conflict or perceived conflict as soon as you become aware of it.	Declaration of interests will be a standing agenda item at investigation meetings and where a conflict is identified it should be reported in the usual manner (see section 5).
	It is not just the IOPC's decision maker on a matter who must consider a conflict of interest, but also any other member of staff who could be perceived as influencing or informing the decision. Given the breadth of the IOPC's business it is not possible to provide an exhaustive list but below are some scenarios where a potential conflict could occur and should be reported.	<ul> <li>6.4. You should raise a potential conflict with your line manager if you are asked to consider or have involvement in a new matter or case which you have had previous knowledge or contact with, either through your IOPC or a previous role, for example:</li> <li>You are allocated an appeal and recognise that you have previously</li> </ul>
6.3.	All IOPC staff are expected to alert their line manager in the event of a complaint, referral, appeal or IOPC investigation that either yourself, a family	advised a colleague on an appeal connected to the same incident 9 months ago.

	<ul> <li>A close personal friend is the partner of a police officer who is currently subject to an IOPC investigation.</li> </ul>	contact with an individual i.e. a witness on a previous investigation 6.5. You should also bring the following matters to your line manager's attention:
		<ul> <li>You have a close personal relationship with another employee of the IOPC where you may be jointly involved in decision making or have influence over decision making that may affect the other person.</li> </ul>
		<ul> <li>You have a connection with someone either seeking employment with the IOPC or to provide the IOPC with goods or services, for example:</li> </ul>

	<ul> <li>6. According to your current policies, and application process, what would constitute an unsuitable applicant, for example criminal record, length of service as a police officer, or some other factor that according to your current policies would make them undesirable?</li> <li>Applications are considered on their own merits and undergo a rigorous sifting, interview, assessment and vetting process to ensure the best candidate is chosen. Each position will have a person specification outlining the required skills and experience for the role. All successful applicants will be required to undergo a series of pre-employment checks including security clearance, references, health declaration, right to work, pension, code of conduct, conflict of interest and work conduct declaration. Only once these checks or documents are returned satisfactorily will an offer of employment checks will be dealt with appropriately depending on the particular circumstances.</li> </ul>
Ref 5024207	IOPC workforce
Request	You asked a number of questions about the IOPC workforce
Response	<ol> <li>How many staff at the so called 'independent' office for police conduct previously worked for any police force?</li> <li>This information is available to you on our website here: Staff Diversity data 2022/23   Independent Office for Police Conduct (IOPC)</li> <li>How many staff at the so called 'independent' office for police conduct currently work for any police force?</li> <li>None.</li> <li>How many staff at the so called 'independent' office for police conduct have been accused of professional misconduct?</li> <li>Of this amount in Question 3, how many staff at the so called 'independent' office for police conduct have been accused of professional misconduct?</li> <li>Of this amount in Question 3, how many staff at the so called 'independent' office for police conduct have had disciplinary action taken against them.</li> <li>How many complaints about the impartiality of the so called 'independent' office for police conduct have been made for each of the past 5 years.</li> <li>How many complaints against members of our staff are not categorised according to whether they allege a lack of impartiality or other form of bias. This means that we would have to assess each of the complaints we have received over the past five to ascertain whether they contain an allegation of this type. The IOPC receives between three and four hundred complaints about members of staff each year.</li> <li>Section 12 of the FOIA and the Freedom of Information and Data Protection (Appropriate Limit and Fees) Regulations 2004 allow the IOPC to refuse a request when the estimated cost of carrying out certain activities exceeds £450, or 18 hours at £25 per hour.</li> </ol>

Given the number of complaints we would have to manually assess, we have estimated that the work involved in carrying out these activities under part 5 of your request would exceed the cost limit by a significant margin.
Multiple requests within a single item of correspondence are considered to be separate requests for the purpose of section 12. If they relate to the same overarching theme, public authorities can aggregate two or more separate requests, in accordance with the conditions laid out in the FOIA Fees Regulations. We find that parts 3 to 6 are connected by a single overarching theme, namely complaints against IOPC staff members.
Accordingly, the cost limit under section 12 FOIA applies to parts 3 to 6 of your request no less than it does to parts 1 and 2, meaning that we are not under a duty to comply with any part of your request.
Advice and assistance
Even though we are not obliged to comply with your request, we have decided to respond to parts 3 and 4 because this particular data can be extracted without the commitment of significant staff time. We would emphasise that we are providing this data to you voluntarily outside of our FOIA duties.
Complaints about staff misconduct are categorised separately from other complaints because they must be considered under The Independent Police Complaints Commission (Staff Conduct) Regulations 2004 (legislation.gov.uk) The number of these complaints we recorded in each of the last three years is as follows
2023/24 – no complaints recorded under the Regulations to date
2022/23 – 3 complaints recorded under the Regulations
2021/22 – 4 complaints recorded under the Regulations
In regard to part 4, no persons have been subject to a formal disciplinary procedure in connection with these complaints.
Further information about complaints against the IOPC is published in our annual reports which are available on this page of our website . Please see for example page 66 of our 2021/22 report .
